Thursday afternoon

22 EDITABLE BEATS · 16:9 REFERENCE STILLS

FRAME 01 / 22

The brothers at the washer

Fluorescent hum. Six washers. Five behaving.

CC: [Fluorescent lights hum.]

FRAME 02 / 22

The brothers at the washer

The sixth goes CLANK. CLANK. CLANK.

CC: [A washer clanks in rhythm.]

FRAME 03 / 22

The brothers at the washer

BUG RAY, 15, holds a microphone to the machine like he's interviewing it. Beside him, a shoebox cassette recorder, needle jumping.

FRAME 04 / 22

The brothers at the washer

PEANUT RAY, 19, folds towels at the table. Handsome in a way that worries mothers. He tries not to laugh at his brother.

Thursday afternoon

22 EDITABLE BEATS · 16:9 REFERENCE STILLS

FRAME 05 / 22

The brothers at the washer

BUG: It's a beat. Hold still, you're bleeding into my take.

FRAME 06 / 22

The brothers at the washer

PEANUT: That machine's been eating quarters since I was seven.

FRAME 07 / 22

The brothers at the washer

BUG: It's got rhythm.

FRAME 08 / 22

The brothers at the washer

PEANUT: So does my elbow. You wanna put that on the radio?

Thursday afternoon

22 EDITABLE BEATS · 16:9 REFERENCE STILLS

FRAME 09 / 22

The newspaper

On the folding table, a left-behind Daily News: FORD TO CITY: DROP DEAD. Peanut reads it standing up.

FRAME 10 / 22

The newspaper

PEANUT: President told the whole city to drop dead.

FRAME 11 / 22

The newspaper

BUG: So?

FRAME 12 / 22

The newspaper

PEANUT: So everybody's quitting at once.

Thursday afternoon

22 EDITABLE BEATS · 16:9 REFERENCE STILLS

FRAME 13 / 22

Buy your rhythm

He slaps two quarters on the machine.

FRAME 14 / 22

Buy your rhythm

PEANUT: Buy your rhythm.

FRAME 15 / 22

Peanut leaves

He pushes out the propped door. Sunlight takes him.

CC: [The door bangs against its stop.]

FRAME 16 / 22

The recorder runs

Bug hits RECORD, sets the mic down, and wanders to the back with his headphones on. The recorder runs. Nobody listening.

CC: [The recorder clicks; the washer clanks.]

Thursday afternoon

22 EDITABLE BEATS · 16:9 REFERENCE STILLS

FRAME 17 / 22

The recorder runs

Through the open door, under the dryers:

FRAME 18 / 22

The recorder runs

MAN (O.S.): This one's on the house.

FRAME 19 / 22

The recorder runs

PEANUT (O.S.): What, you hit the lottery?

FRAME 20 / 22

The recorder runs

MAN (O.S.): Don't push it.

Thursday afternoon

22 EDITABLE BEATS · 16:9 REFERENCE STILLS

FRAME 21 / 22

The laugh and the ring

Peanut LAUGHS -- big, dumb, nineteen forever. Out of focus on the step: a cigarette cherry, a gold pinky ring catching sun. Nothing else.

CC: [Peanut laughs.]

FRAME 22 / 22

DRYER BEAT

Bug comes back, rewinds, ejects. In ballpoint he labels the cassette DRYER BEAT.

CC: [Tape rewinds and clicks off.]